COMPANY PROFILE

MARSS operates in the Italian market as producer and distributor of security system.

MARSS is born to offer innovative and unique security solutions and services: most of our solutions are patented.

The security market is continuously developing and if on one side offers a large amount of products, on the other one it is not easy to find the right solution between all.
Our point of strength: the proper competence to make and offer the right product for the single application, to assure efficiency and costs optimization.

MARSS encloses in the name its philosophy guides: More Advanced Research in Security Systems, in order to offer solutions of quality, convenience and innovation.

Our market

Marss operates in the market through a network of security partners and numbers among its customers, main national and international companies active in the following sectors:

- banking
- civil
- commercial
- energetic
- industrial
- public

The customer relationship is not a simply relation customer-provider: we participate directly their projects to find the best technologies and solutions to support them.

Products & Solutions "Marss branded"

Our research moves from Anti-theft to CCTV, from Access Control to Fire Alarm field.

Products and solutions are borne from a careful market analysis and research activity aimed to develop and produce solutions recognized as innovative and unique for application and technology.
Under any solution with Marss brand there are: the guarantee of a deep market knowledge; qualified partnerships, professional teams dedicate to the customer, a modular approach at the requests, the respect of the law standards, a brand commercially protected.

Marss is patentee

The company

A dynamic and flexible structure, organized in divisions (Administrative, Commercial, Logistic, Marketing, Production, Research&Development, Engineering) where our teams support the customer from project stage to when the work is over: all this professionally and politely.